

River Flow

To every river,
there is a beginning and an end.
Not this river...
all it sees are meanders and a waterfall.
The thing is... it's only one river
but it runs in pairs.
Though they share a common source
and they never seems to meet,
they mirror each others course
no matter how long the river flows.
The sun will shine again
and dry up the river flow...
But...
To every river,
there is a beginning
and an end.
Not this river,
all it sees are meanders and a waterfall.

J. Etienne

© 2004