

So What?

Outside the rain is falling,
So what,
It can't rain forever.

Inside you are hurting,
So what,
The pain will go and the wound will heal.

You complain of today being a bad day.
So what,
I am sure that you have had some pleasant days in your life.

You are hurrying because you are running late.
So what,
You can't be late twice for the same meeting.

You are crying in a corner saying nobody loves you.
So what,
God loves you... bet you didn't know that.

You look at me and call me rude and out of place because of the things
I am telling you now.
So what,
You can't say it is not the truth.

And so what if you want to beat me.
Does it stop the sun from being hot
And turning your skin red?

So what if you want to stop me from speaking.
Wouldn't it cause others to want to know why?

So... what are you going to say then?

